

While studying about the five senses, Kindergarten students in Mrs. Megan Saylor's class at Cumberland Elementary School participated in a popcorn sensory activity. They used their five senses and descriptive words to tell what it sounded like while it was popping, what it looked like, what it smelled like, how it felt and how it tasted. Students filled out a paper completing sentences to describe each of the five senses. At the end of the activity students were able to eat all their popcorn!
